LESLEY TENAGLIA • FUSE MORTGAGE • 2× MONTHLY (1ST AND 15TH)

Voice: practitioner letter • Detailed, specific, no fluff • Audience: referral partners and past clients

Not a newsletter. A practitioner letter.

Lesley's email is a practitioner letter. She is writing to referral partners (realtors, financial planners, lawyers) and past clients — people who already know her. The email deepens what social teases: full alternative lending breakdowns, reverse mortgage education with real numbers, and the kind of detail that makes a referral partner think "I need to send my next declined client to Lesley."

Subject lines signal expertise, not routine. "What to do when the bank says no" — never "June Mortgage Update."

The email a realtor saves and forwards to a colleague.

— T H E B A R

The forward test. Before sending, ask: would a Toronto realtor save this email and forward it to a colleague? If no, it is not specific enough.

Six parts. One practitioner voice.

T H E F O R M A T

- 01 Subject line
Expertise-signalling. Specific. Never generic. 6 to 8 words maximum.

---

- 02 Opening line
One sentence that earns the read.

---

- 03 The breakdown
200 to 300 words. One scenario, one product, one path. Detailed enough that a referral partner could explain it to their client.

---

- 04 The Fuse angle
What Lesley does differently with this exact scenario.

---

- 05 CTA
One action. Phone for referral partners. Email for past clients.

- 06 Sign-off
"— Lesley." Plain. Human. Confident.

| Jun 1  | "Why I stopped competing with the bank"               | The pivot announcement, email version. Deeper than social. Why Lesley is going all-in on alternative lending, what it means for referral partners, what it means for past clients whose friends might need help. |
| Jun 15 | "What today's rate change means for B-lender clients" | BoC Jun 10 follow-up. Alternative lens. What a rate move means for someone on a B-lender product working toward A qualification. The math, clearly.                                                              |

July B-LENDER EDUCATION

| SEND          | SUBJECT                                                    | TOPIC                                                                                                                                  |
|---------------|------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Jul 1  | "B-lenders aren't a last resort. Here's proof."     | Full B-lender breakdown. Who they are, what they offer, why Lesley recommends them for specific scenarios. Real Toronto numbers.       |
| Jul 15 | "The reverse mortgage conversation nobody's having" | CHIP facts vs. myths. For referral partners: when to suggest it. For past clients: what to tell their parents. 55+ Toronto homeowners. |

August REVERSE MORTGAGE & NEWCOMERS

| SEND          | SUBJECT                                                     | TOPIC                                                                                                                                       |
| Aug 1  | "Your client was declined. Now what?"                | Referral partner email. The exact steps Fuse takes when a deal arrives after bank rejection. Process transparency. What to tell the client. |
| Aug 15 | "New to Canada, no credit history — here's the path" | Newcomer mortgage through the alternative lens. CMHC newcomer program, credit-building timeline, what Fuse does that banks won't.           |

| Nov 1  | "The clients banks turned away this year — here's what happened" | Year-in-review data. How many deals Fuse saved, what types, what the outcomes were. Anonymized but specific.                          |
| Nov 15 | "Renewing on a B-lender in Q1? Read this now."                   | Practical prep for alternative lending renewals coming in early 2027. What to do, when to start, why the bank's letter isn't the end. |

December FULL PIVOT STATEMENT

| Dec 1  | "Six months ago I changed everything. Here's what happened." | Full-circle email. The pivot results. What changed in the business, the clients, the referral relationships. Earned confidence.                  |
| Dec 15 | "Thank you — and here's what 2027 looks like"                | Gratitude plus forward look. Where Fuse is heading, what referral partners can expect, what alternative lending looks like next year in Toronto. |

— B O C P R O T O C O L

When rate news lands, Lesley translates the number.

BoC announcements near send dates get merged into that email. Mid-month announcements get a bonus email within 24 hours, always through the alternative lending lens. Never more than three emails in a month.

The standard. Short, Toronto-specific, and plain. Use real scenarios, real numbers, real outcomes. Translate the BoC for the alternative client, not the A-lender prime borrower.

— L I S T S E G M E N T A T I O N

| SEGMENT                           | VARIATION                                                                                       |
|-----------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Referral partners          | Realtors, planners, lawyers. Process-focused. "Here's how to save the deal." Professional tone. |
| Past clients (A-lender)    | "Know someone the bank turned away? Here's what Fuse can do for them." Referral generation.     |
| Past clients (alternative) | Renewal prep, path-to-A updates, ongoing support.                                               |
| Reverse mortgage prospects | Education-first. CHIP details, family conversation guides.                                      |

Start with one list. Segment when volume supports it.

Detailed. Specific. No fluff.

Email Voice Rules

- Subject lines. Expertise-signalling. Feels like a practitioner, not a marketer. 6 to 8 words.
- Tone. Detailed, warm, knowledgeable. A colleague sharing something important.
- Data. Toronto-specific. Real scenarios, real numbers, real outcomes.
- Length. 200 to 300 words max. Dense but readable.
- Design. Clean, minimal. Warm grey and amber accent in header only. Text-forward.
- Language. Never "bad credit." Always "bruised credit" or "non-traditional borrower." Never shame the audience.

The Differentiation

- Versus brokerage newsletters. Lesley writes like a practitioner. Specific scenarios, not market updates.
- Versus rate-shopping content. Lesley does not compete on rates. She competes on the deal banks could not close.
- Versus generic compassion. Lesley offers compassion plus expertise. Real options, not just empathy.
- The standard. Every email teaches the reader something they did not know before they opened it.

T H E F I L T E R

*Would a Toronto realtor save this email and forward it to a colleague?
If no, it is not specific enough.*
