CAMPAIGN PHILOSOPHY

The email a neighbour opens and keeps reading.

Jennifer's email is a note from someone you already trust. Not a newsletter. Not a market report. A personal message that makes the reader feel like Jennifer thought of them specifically.

For past clients, it is the reminder she is still at the rink, still in the community, still their person. For first-time buyers, it is the email that makes mortgages feel less scary.

“

If a corporate mortgage company could send this email, Jennifer doesn't send it.

— THE STANDARD

The shift. Most mortgage emails earn attention through authority or urgency. Jennifer's earn it through presence. The reader opens because they recognise the name, not because the subject line tricked them into clicking.

AUDIENCE & STRUCTURE

A note from a neighbour who knows mortgages.

Conversational. First-person. NS-rooted. Never templated. Every email reads like Jennifer wrote it for that send, that month, that person.

Send Profile

FROM	Jennifer MacLennan
------	--------------------

AUDIENCE	Past clients, NS families, first-time buyers, community contacts.
----------	---

CADENCE	Twice monthly, on the 1st and 15th. BoC-triggered bonus sends within twenty-four hours when warranted. Never more than three sends in a month.
---------	--

CTA	Email only (jennifer.maclennan@premiermortgage.ca). One action per email. No phone rotation.
-----	--

SIGN-OFF	"— Jennifer" followed by the Premiere footer and Nova Scotia line. Clean, personal close.
----------	---

Coordination With Social

Email content complements but never duplicates the Facebook and Instagram posts from the same week. Community moments (rink, volunteer, ball field) surface in email differently than they do on social. Same person, different room.

EMAIL FORMAT

Six parts. Every time.

The same skeleton on every send. First-person, grounded, neighbourly. Never templated even though the structure is consistent.

SUBJECT	Warm, conversational. Sounds like a friend texting. Six to eight words. No clickbait, no ALL CAPS, no emoji.
OPENING	One sentence, personal. Draws you in like a conversation. No generic salutations.
THE VIEW	One hundred fifty to two hundred fifty words. One idea, one story, one piece of real advice. NS context. Kitchen-table tone.
SOFT BRIDGE	The mortgage connection, earned. How this links to what Jennifer does. Never forced, never pitchy.
CTA	One action. Email only. jennifer.maclennan@premieremortgage.ca . No phone, no calendar link.
SIGN-OFF	"— Jennifer" followed by Premiere footer and Nova Scotia line.

The filter. Before every send: would this make a neighbour feel like they know Jennifer better, or does it sound like a mortgage company emailing them? If it is the latter, rewrite it.

JUNE · SEND 1

KITCHEN TABLE

Subject: What I wish someone had told me about buying a home

The conversational guide. What Jennifer tells every first-time buyer on the first call. Not a checklist. A kitchen-table conversation. NS context, real feelings, real advice. The email that makes a nervous buyer breathe out.

BOC REACTION

Subject: The rate news, in plain English

BoC follow-up. Family-budget language. If you are on a variable rate and you have been watching your payment, here is what this means for your actual number. No jargon, no charts, no hedging.

JULY · SEND 1

COMMUNITY BRIDGE

Subject: Between innings, someone asked me about their mortgage

A real moment from ball field volunteering that turned into a mortgage conversation. How Jennifer's life and work overlap naturally. Community trust as the foundation. The soft bridge in its purest form.

CTA · EMAIL JENNIFER

JULY · SEND 2

REFINANCE

Subject: Refinancing: the conversation nobody thinks to have

When refinancing makes sense, explained like a friend at a kitchen table. NS price points, real scenarios, what Jennifer looks at before recommending anything. The email that earns a forward to a sister or a cousin.

Q2 · FRESH START

AUGUST · SEND 1

BACK-TO-SCHOOL

Subject: Back-to-school and a fresh start

The connection between new beginnings and homeownership. For families thinking about buying before the school year. What to start doing now. Warm, never urgent. The kind of email that meets a family where they actually are in August.

CTA · EMAIL JENNIFER

AUGUST · SEND 2

TRANSFER

Subject: What a mortgage transfer actually looks like

Jennifer's specialty, explained simply. Why you do not have to stay with your current lender. What the process is. What clients do not realise they can do. Quiet expertise, kitchen-table delivery.

CTA · EMAIL JENNIFER

Q3 · FALL MARKET

SEPTEMBER · SEND 1

NS MARKET READ

Subject: Fall is when serious buyers show up

NS fall market. Not a data dump. A warm, honest read on who is buying, what is available, what it feels like out there right now. Jennifer's read of the room, written like she is telling a friend over coffee.

CTA · EMAIL JENNIFER

SEPTEMBER · SEND 2

BOC REACTION

Subject: The rate changed. Here's your actual number.

BoC follow-up. Kitchen-table language. Variable rate holders, fixed rate renewers. What this means in real dollars for an NS family. The math, translated.

Q3 · RINK SEASON

OCTOBER · SEND 1

COMMUNITY BRIDGE

Subject: The question I get most at the rink

A real question from a real conversation, woven into practical advice. How much do I actually need for a down payment? Is now a good time to buy? Jennifer answers the way she would at the boards between periods.

CTA · EMAIL JENNIFER

OCTOBER · SEND 2

RENEWAL

Subject: Your renewal doesn't have to be stressful

Renewal guidance for past clients. Why the letter from your lender is not the end of the conversation. What Jennifer checks. What most people do not know they can do. Warm, but honest about the bank's opening offer.

CTA · EMAIL JENNIFER

November

Q4 · LOOKING FORWARD

NOVEMBER · SEND 1

YEAR IN REVIEW

Subject: The families I helped this year

Year-in-review, Jennifer's way. Not numbers. People. The first-time buyer who cried at closing. The family who finally transferred away from their bank. Anonymized, but real. The email that reminds you why she does this.

CTA · EMAIL JENNIFER

NOVEMBER · SEND 2

2027 PLANNING

Subject: Thinking about 2027? Let's talk before January.

A warm planning guide. What to start doing now if you want to buy next year. Pre-approval timing, savings check, credit prep. Not a checklist. A conversation. Forward-looking, never pressuring.

CTA · EMAIL JENNIFER

DECEMBER · SEND 1

REFLECTION

Subject: Home is the foundation

Holiday reflection. What homeownership means beyond the mortgage. The rink you can walk to, the neighbours who become family, the community you choose. Jennifer's why, written quietly.

CTA · EMAIL JENNIFER

DECEMBER · SEND 2

GRATITUDE

Subject: Thank you for trusting me

Year-end gratitude. The clients, the community, the kitchen-table conversations. "You're never just a number. You're a family, a dream, a next chapter." Warm close to the year. Signed off properly.

CTA · EMAIL JENNIFER

BoC-Triggered Bonus Emails

When a major rate announcement happens, a bonus email can land within twenty-four hours. Same Jennifer voice. Family-budget language. Never more than three sends in a month. The bonus is service, never spam.

WHAT THESE EMAILS NEVER DO

The guardrails. Strict.

The list of things these emails refuse to do is as important as what they do.

- Sound like a corporate mortgage company. No marketing-department tone, no templated greeting.
- Lead with credentials or authority posturing. Presence over credentials, every time.
- Use industry jargon, basis points, or charts. Plain English about real dollars.
- Include multiple CTAs in a single email. One action. Email only.
- Use urgency tactics or pressure language. Warm planning beats fear-based prompting.
- Lose the Nova Scotia identity. Every email should feel rooted in this place.

The email a neighbour opens, reads to the end, and forwards to a friend who is thinking about buying.

Your neighbour.
Your mortgage broker.
Your biggest advocate.
