CAMPAIGN PHILOSOPHY

The written version of the two-region read.

Alex's email is the one a referral partner forwards because it does the thing nobody else in their inbox does. One question. Two regional answers. Side by side. Real price points. Atlantic Canada on one side. Ontario on the other.

For Realtors and advisors, it's the email that makes them think, "I should send my relocating client to Alex." For buyers, it's the email that makes the cross-market decision less confusing. Short. Smart. Two regions. One voice.

You're not just buying in your city. You're making a decision across markets that don't move the same way.

CADENCE	SEND DAYS	VOICE	CTA
Twice Monthly	1st & 15th	Authority, two-region	Email primary

From: Alex Spicer, Premiere Mortgage Centre · Sara² Team

Audience: Referral partners (Realtors, financial advisors) across Atlantic Canada and Ontario, past and prospective clients, cross-region investors, relocators in both directions.

CTA: alex.spicer@premiermortgage.ca. Email is the primary action, not phone. One CTA per send.

BoC protocol: When the Bank of Canada announces near a send date, the two-region read goes out within 24 hours. Same announcement, Atlantic scenario, Ontario scenario. Never more than three emails in a month.

THE FORMAT

Six parts. Every time.

The same skeleton on every send. The two-region lens carries the content. The structure earns the trust. Two hundred to three hundred words. Dense but clear. Every paragraph says something a single-province broker couldn't.

01 · SUBJECT	Specific, authority-level. Two-region framing where natural. Six to eight words. No emoji. No "Monthly Update."
02 · OPENING	One sentence that positions. The two-region lens, set in the first line. Never "Hi {{first_name}}, hope this finds you well."
03 · THE INSIGHT	200 to 300 words. One question, two regional answers. Halifax, Moncton, St. John's, or Charlottetown on one side. Toronto and the GTA on the other. Real price points, real data.
04 · THE ALEX ANGLE	Why this matters with a broker who sees both. The differential between the two markets, the lender conversation across provinces, the Sara ² team depth behind the file.
05 · CTA	One action. Email Alex directly. Primary CTA for the entire campaign. Phone is a secondary fallback only when explicitly warranted.
06 · SIGN-OFF	"— Alex" followed by the Premiere and Sara ² footer. Clean, professional close.

Q2 · OPENING

JUNE · SEND 1

BOC TWO-REGION READ

Subject: Same rate cut, two different markets

BoC June 10 preview and follow-up. What a rate move means on the ground in Halifax versus the GTA. Real price points, real numbers, the kind of side-by-side context a single-province broker can't credibly write. The email a Realtor in either region forwards to their client the same day.

CTA · EMAIL ALEX.SPICER@PREMIEREMORTGAGE.CA

JUNE · SEND 2

RELOCATION

Subject: Relocating east to west? Read this first.

The Atlantic-to-Ontario move. What changes in qualification, what lenders look at differently when the file crosses a provincial line, the stress test at two very different price points. Practical, clear, designed for the buyer who's already weighing the move.

CTA · EMAIL ALEX.SPICER@PREMIEREMORTGAGE.CA

Q2 · MARKET COMPARISONS

JULY · SEND 1

PRICE-POINT COMPARISON

Subject: What $400K buys: Atlantic vs. Ontario

Side by side. Halifax at $400K, Moncton at $400K, Toronto at $400K. Same dollar, completely different outcomes. The math that matters when buyers are weighing a move, an investment, or a first home across two regions that don't move the same way.

CTA · EMAIL ALEX.SPICER@PREMIEREMORTGAGE.CA

JULY · SEND 2

SELF-EMPLOYED

Subject: Self-employed across two provinces? Here's what lenders see.

How lenders read self-employed income in Atlantic Canada versus Ontario. Documentation differences, qualification gaps, the kind of file Alex closes weekly when income lives across two provinces. The detail that turns a self-employed prospect into a closed file.

Q3 · INSIDER & INVESTOR

AUGUST · SEND 1

LENDER INSIDER

Subject: The lender conversation is different here.

Ten years inside the lender world, supporting brokers across Atlantic Canada and Ottawa, gave Alex something rare: the BDM's view of how files actually get positioned with the underwriter. The insider perspective applied to how a file moves through underwriting in each region.

CTA · EMAIL ALEX.SPICER@PREMIEREMORTGAGE.CA

AUGUST · SEND 2

CROSS-REGION INVESTOR

Subject: Investing in Atlantic Canada from Ontario: the real guide

Cross-region investors. What Ontario buyers need to know about Atlantic rental properties. Qualification differences, cash flow at Atlantic price points compared to Ontario, the lender conversation when the file straddles two provinces. The guide nobody else in their inbox writes.

CTA · EMAIL ALEX.SPICER@PREMIEREMORTGAGE.CA

Q3 · FALL MARKET & BOC

SEPTEMBER · SEND 1

FALL MARKET

Subject: Fall market: two regions, two stories

Atlantic Canada's fall versus Ontario's fall. Inventory levels, pricing direction, buyer behaviour in each region. The context a single-province broker can't deliver. What it means for a buyer trying to time a purchase, and what it means for a Realtor trying to advise one.

CTA · EMAIL ALEX.SPICER@PREMIEREMORTGAGE.CA

SEPTEMBER · SEND 2

BOC TWO-REGION READ

Subject: Today's rate decision: read through both lenses

BoC September 16 follow-up. Same announcement, Halifax scenario at one price point, Toronto scenario at another. What each market's buyers should do right now. Calm, specific, the read that turns a national announcement into two regional action plans.

Q4 · RENEWAL & REFERRAL

OCTOBER · SEND 1

RENEWAL STRATEGY

Subject: Renewal season: why your region matters

How renewal strategy differs across Atlantic Canada and Ontario. Rate options, lender competition in each region, the specific levers Alex pulls depending on where the file lives. The renewal letter looks the same from every bank. The right response doesn't.

CTA · EMAIL ALEX.SPICER@PREMIEREMORTGAGE.CA

OCTOBER · SEND 2

REFERRAL PARTNER

Subject: Your Realtor in Halifax. Your broker in both.

Written explicitly for Realtors in Atlantic Canada and Ontario. What Alex can do for their cross-region clients that a local-only broker can't. The exact scenarios that warrant a referral. The email that turns a connection into a working partnership.

CTA · EMAIL ALEX.SPICER@PREMIEREMORTGAGE.CA*November*

Q4 · YEAR-IN-REVIEW

NOVEMBER · SEND 1

YEAR-IN-REVIEW

Subject: What both markets actually did in 2026

Year-in-review data. Atlantic Canada versus Ontario. What moved, what surprised, what it means for 2027 buyers in each region. The differential between the two markets, surfaced in the data and translated into next year's playbook.

CTA · EMAIL ALEX.SPICER@PREMIEREMORTGAGE.CA

NOVEMBER · SEND 2

SARA² TEAM DEPTHSubject: The Sara² Team: specialists behind your file

How the Sara² team handles complexity across five provinces. A coordination story that demonstrates the value. Not corporate onboarding language. A real file, real province lines, the specific places team depth made the difference between a maybe and a yes.

Q4 · OUTLOOK & REFLECTION

DECEMBER · SEND 1

2027 OUTLOOK

Subject: 2027 outlook: two regions, one read

Data-led predictions for both markets. Where Atlantic Canada and Ontario are heading. What the differential between the two means for buyers, for investors, for anyone weighing a cross-region move. The forecast the rest of the industry can't credibly run.

CTA · EMAIL ALEX.SPICER@PREMIEREMORTGAGE.CA

DECEMBER · SEND 2

YEAR-END REFLECTION

Subject: Thank you, from both coasts

Year-end. The families helped across both regions this year. The cross-region wins. The why behind running a practice that holds licensing in five provinces. Warm, genuine, Alex's voice. The send that lands the day a client decides where to send their next referral.

CTA · EMAIL ALEX.SPICER@PREMIEREMORTGAGE.CA

Segmentation Notes

- Atlantic Canada clients and prospects. Lead with Atlantic data, use Ontario as the comparison point.
- Ontario clients and prospects. Lead with Ontario data, use Atlantic Canada as the comparison point.
- Referral partners. Realtors and advisors get the referral-framed angle. "Here's what to know before you send a cross-region client."
- Cross-region investors. Investment-focused. Cash flow, qualification, cross-province portfolio strategy.

WHAT THESE EMAILS NEVER DO

The guardrails. Strict.

The list of things these emails refuse to do is as important as what they do.

- Read like a single-province take. Every send carries the two-region lens, or it doesn't go.
- Drift into generic mortgage education without the Atlantic and Ontario layer.
- Imply national service. Alex's licensing covers NS, NB, NL, PEI, and ON. Not BC, not the Prairies, not Quebec.
- Use clickbait subject lines. Specific, authority-level, two-region framing where natural.
- Include more than one CTA in a single email. Email Alex directly. One action.
- Reference #PremiereMortgage. Always #ChoosePremiere when hashtags appear.
- Treat team content like corporate onboarding. The Sara² team shows up as proof of depth, never as a roster.
- Feel templated. Every email reads like Alex sat down and wrote it for this audience, this week, this idea.

Could a single-province broker have written this? If yes, rewrite it.

Sara² Team Coordination

Alex's emails own the national and cross-market lens. Tracy's own the institutional, banking-insider angle. Same team, different expertise. Subscribers who appear on both lists get two complementary perspectives, never two versions of the same email. Cross-region content stays exclusive to Alex. Institutional intelligence stays exclusive to Tracy.

Two regions. One read on the market.

Twice a month. Atlantic Canada and Ontario, side by side. The cross-region perspective no single-province broker can credibly deliver. Written for the buyer, valuable to the partner.
