Market: Toronto and the GTA · Platforms: Facebook, Instagram · Service: Social + Email · Voice: Personal, empathy-led, cause-driven, nursing background

BRAND POSITIONING

Danielle is not a mortgage broker who gives to charity. She is a broker whose entire practice is built around doing something good.

The 10% giveback is the brand. It's the answer to "why Danielle?" before a client even asks the question. Every other pillar — closing celebrations, nursing background, client stories — sits in service of that conviction.

The care layer. Danielle brought a nurse's care philosophy into mortgages. Her clients don't feel like transactions. They feel like people being looked after.

PRIMARY PILLAR — THE GIVEBACK

The lead story, every month.

This is rare in mortgage. The strategy positions it that way. The giveback is not a footer on Danielle's bio. It's the lead. The recurring proof that she means what she says about doing good through the work.

//

Every time I help a client close, a portion goes back to the community we're all building equity in.

— 10% GIVEBACK. BUILT INTO THE PRACTICE.

MONTHLY GIVEBACK CONTENT

- Which organization received the contribution this month and why it matters
- Running total. Cumulative impact number, updated and celebrated publicly
- A short story about what the contribution does in real terms (e.g., "This month's contribution helped fund three months of after-school programming for 12 kids in Scarborough")

POSITIONING LANGUAGE

Not corporate CSR. Personal conviction. Every reference to the giveback should read like Danielle wrote it herself, because she means it.

G I V E B A C K M I L E S T O N E S

Each threshold gets its own moment.

The cumulative total is tracked continuously. When the number crosses a threshold, that milestone gets its own dedicated post with real emotion, not just a number.

$10K

FIRST THRESHOLD

Real emotion. The journey to get here. What it represents.

$25K

MAJOR MOMENT

The organizations supported. The clients who made it possible.

$50K

LEGACY

Campaign-level. The full story, every organization, every ripple.

EOY

YEAR-END

Every organization, total raised, what it meant. The post that defines the year.

The number isn't the point. What it represents is the point. Each milestone post earns its emotion by telling the story behind the figure.

Champagne & Closings.

High-quality single image or short Reel · Instagram primary, mirrored to Facebook

Danielle's closing celebration series. Not generic "congrats new homeowner" content. What makes it hers is the specificity. Every post tells one true thing that only Danielle could say about that particular client's journey.

THE TEST

If the caption could have been written by any broker about any client, it doesn't go. The caption has to say something only Danielle could say about that specific closing.

HOW IT SHOWS UP

- Real clients (with permission), real moments. The relief, the joy, the specific story.
- The champagne is a symbol of celebration earned. Not a prop.
- Short caption that tells one true thing about that client's journey.
- Example: "They were told no twice before they called me."

Specificity over scale. One story, told well, beats five generic "amazing client" posts.

THE NURSING BACKGROUND

Positioning, not gimmick.

Danielle's nursing background isn't trivia. It's the explanation for why she approaches her work the way she does. The content treats it that way. Never overused. Always authentic. Always tied to the way she actually serves clients.

//

In nursing, we called it person-centred care. In mortgages, I call it actually listening.

— THE CARE PHILOSOPHY

EXAMPLE ANGLES

- "In nursing, we called it person-centred care. In mortgages, I call it actually listening."
- "I used to hold hands in difficult moments. I still do. The conversations are just different now."
- The parallel between the patience required in healthcare and the patience required through a mortgage process.

This content is not a marketing gimmick. It's the explanation of why Danielle approaches her work the way she does. Written that way, it earns trust. Forced, it loses it.

PLATFORM APPROACH

Two platforms, two roles.

Facebook holds the longer personal stories and the giveback context. Instagram carries the visual celebration and the emotional punches. Each platform plays to what its audience actually reads.

FACEBOOK

Longer personal stories

Giveback updates with full context, community connection, referral partner reach. Audience includes community members who respond to the giving mission. Posts can run 150 to 250 words.

INSTAGRAM

Visual celebration

Champagne & Closings imagery, short emotional punches (three to five lines), giveback milestone graphics. Stories carry quick client celebrations and casual behind-the-scenes moments.

EMAIL + SOCIAL — DEEPENING THE STORY

Monthly theme alignment. Social plants the story, email tells it fully. Email reaches the people who want more. The giveback recipients they'd like to support too. The closing journeys they want to read in full.

- Giveback. Social teases the giving story. Email tells it fully, with cumulative impact and a direct link for the reader to support the same organization.
- Closings. Social celebrates the moment. Email opens with the client's full journey, then pivots to "here's what's possible for you."

EMAIL TONE

Like a letter from someone you trust. Warm, specific, never promotional. Subject lines are personal, not clickbait.

BANK OF CANADA — A MINIMAL PRESENCE

Rate analysis is not Danielle's voice.

When she does post about a BoC announcement, it's through the lens of a real person, not a chart. Through a family lens, never through a rate chart.

- If Danielle posts on a BoC announcement day, it sounds like: "What this means for the couple who asked me last week if they should wait or buy now."
- Never rate analysis, never charts, never jargon.
- Always framed through a real conversation she's had with a real client.
- One post per major announcement, maximum. Skipping is fine when it doesn't serve the brand.

MONTHLY RHYTHM — FOUR STORIES

Each week of the month carries a distinct content type.

WEEK 1

Champagne & Closings

The celebration moment. Real client, real story, Instagram primary.

WEEK 2

Giveback Update

The organization, the impact story, the running total.

WEEK 3

Nursing / Care

The "why behind the work" content. Grounded, never gimmicky.

WEEK 4

Personal Story

Long-form on Facebook. The narrative content that builds the brand voice.

WHAT THIS STRATEGY AVOIDS

What Danielle doesn't post is as important as what she does.

The decisions about what not to post are as important as the content plan itself. Anything in this list pulls Danielle's brand away from the warmth that is its entire foundation.

OFF-BRAND FOR DANIELLE

- ✗ Rate comparison graphics or "lowest rate" language
- ✗ Corporate-sounding captions
- ✗ Generic homebuyer tips that any broker could post
- ✗ Giveback mentions that feel performative or tacked on. The giveback leads, always.
- ✗ Anything that distances Danielle from the warmth that is the entire brand

THE FILTER

Before any post goes out, the question is the same. Does this sound like Danielle wrote it about a real person she cared about, or could any broker have posted it? If it's the second one, it doesn't go.
